EMPLOYEE JOB SATISFACTION STUDY: HOW LEADERS CAN RETAIN TOP-PERFORMING STAFF

MALLORY BIRCH, MSW, LGSW

I WANT TO KNOW ABOUT YOU!

- Name
- Organization name and location
- Position
- Optional: What are you hoping to gain from this presentation?

LEARNING OUTCOMES:

1. Understand a research design that can be useful in retrieving employee job satisfaction levels

2. Identify leading factors that positively and negatively impact employee job satisfaction levels

3. Determine an organizational or leadership plan that aims to intentionally reduce turnover rates and increase employee job satisfaction

Which factor is most important to you in being satisfied with your job?

- Salary
- Health Care benefits
- Paid time off
- Flexible hours and schedule
- Opportunities for advancement
- Support from your supervisor
- Relationship with clients (or students)
- Relationship with your peers/colleagues
- Access to internal/external training opportunities
- Having a manageable workload
- Recognition received from management

Would you stay in your job longer if this factor was improved?

Would you leave your job if this factor was taken away?

WHAT DOES RESEARCH TELL US ABOUT THIS TOPIC?

LITERATURE REVIEW
LITERATURE REVIEW

- 14 research articles were reviewed
- Topics explored: 1) Employee turnover, 2) Retention, and 3) Job satisfaction
- All articles related to social service or direct care professions
- 53 factors that impact job satisfaction were identified within those articles
- Majority of social services organizations see turnover rates between 25% - 35% per year
- Impacts of employee turnover to an organization:
  1. Cost to the organization is increased
  2. Morale is diminished
  3. Quality of care is compromised

FACTORS LINKED TO JOB SATISFACTION

1. Strong supervision
2. Commitment to clients
3. Training opportunities to increase employee competence
4. Wages
5. Benefits
6. Opportunities for advancement
7. Manageable workload
8. Team spirit and support from peers
9. Organization support and/or commitment to the organization
10. Employees being able to share in the decision making process
11. Employee recognition
12. Strong communication within the organization
13. Workplace flexibility
14. Workplace safety

JOB SATISFACTION STUDY

IN A NUTSHELL

PROBLEM STATEMENT

Research shows that job dissatisfaction results in high employee turnover and negatively impacts both organizations effectiveness and client care (Head, Washington, & Myers, 2013).

- The turnover rate of direct care employees at [agency] in 2013 was 29.89%.
- Strategies that increase employee job satisfaction (therefore decreasing turnover) must be implemented

RESEARCH METHOD

- Research Design
  - Mixed-methods study using an online survey tool
- Research Questions
  1. Is there a relationship between job satisfaction of employees at [agency] and the length of time they have been employed?
  2. What is the comparison between job satisfaction of employees at [agency] and the division in which they work?
  3. Are there factors that can be identified by employees at [agency] that would increase overall job satisfaction?
RESEARCH METHOD

Participants

- Direct care employees of [agency]
- 48 employees worked within two (2) divisions and eight (8) departments
- Stratified Random Sampling
  A sample will be selected from each department within each of the two divisions to assure that employees from different areas are equally represented.
- Population: n=127
- Sample: N=48

DATA ANALYSIS

- Quantitative questions: Data pulled from Qualtrics into an Excel spreadsheet.
- Multiple choice questions: Percentages
- Scale questions: Averages (individual and overall)
- Ranking question: Frequency and percentages
- Statistical methods
  - Correlation: Statistical analyses will show if there is a positive relationship, negative relationship, or no relationship for the two quantitative research questions.
- Qualitative questions:
  - Code book will be developed. Frequency of coded items will be used to evaluate themes and pull out potential interventions.

FINDINGS

Quantitative data

1. Salary
2. Flexibility of work hours
3. Support from my supervisor

Qualitative data

1. Support from my supervisor
2. Flexibility of work hours
3. Recognition received from management

APPLICATION TO SOCIAL WORK PRACTICE

“To effectively retain workers, employers must know what factors motivate their employees to stay in the field and what factors cause them to leave. Employers need to understand whether these factors are associated with worker characteristics or with the nature of the work process, over which they may have some control.”

(Mor Barak et al., 2001, p. 626)

STEPS THAT YOU CAN TAKE

1. Modify data collection tool so that it is applicable to your organization and team
2. Implement survey
   - Could an intern or neutral party implement this for you?
3. Review and analyze the results
4. Make a commitment to address the factors that are within your control
5. Bring a team together to build an action plan
   - What are some short-term and long-term changes that could be implemented?
   - Value of front-line staff contributing to this process
6. Execute plan and update the full team on progress regularly
"Perceived supervisor support has been shown to be significantly related to perceived organizational support and employee retention."
(Brannon et al., 2007, p. 821)

"Success largely hinges on the quality of the relationship between mentor and mentee, indicating that the training of supervisors is a critical element of the process."
(Guillaume et al., 2013, p. 132)
